

Leadership Readiness for Turbulent Times

Short, ready-to-deploy virtual courses to help your business thrive in this new reality

4 courses | Live and Online | 90-Minutes

Highly Interactive and Experiential

Deciphering Turbulence: Sources of Data and Insight

What signals you should look out for – crisis vs emergencies?

Led by faculty who helped develop the crisis management response for the 2012 London Olympics, this highly interactive session will allow you to shape your own strategy for building more reliable and actionable insights.

Decision Making in a Crisis: How to Lead in Chaos

Lean to make effective decisions in volatile situations.

Based on military and emergency room scenarios, this course will help you understand specific behaviors and actions leaders should employ during times of complexity and uncertainty.

Leadership Through Crisis: Effective Communication

How can you lead effective communications during crises?

When we experience extreme stress our ability to communicate diminishes rapidly. This course will help you identify tools leaders utilize for communicating effectively such as role and escalation planning, trust building and context management.

Leading Resilient Virtual Teams: Unlock Opportunity for Innovation

Guide your team to engage, focus and create a future which allows your business to thrive in uncertainty.

This course provides you with ready-to-deploy tools using the Appreciative Inquiry methodology to help create energy in virtual work environments, foster collaboration and create innovative solutions during turbulence.

Register today - <https://bit.ly/3dcmN6E> | Email: executive@eller.arizona.edu

Individual Registration: $150 per course
Complete all 4 to Earn a Certificate for $500
Tailored Solutions for Organizations Available

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

Eller Executive Education

5th in the US for Customized Executive Education Programs and 10th in US for Online MBA

